

Modern Slavery & Human Trafficking

Since first being formed on 27th February 1952 we have built an enviable reputation for ethical behaviour in providing printing services. The Directors, Management and Staff of Belmont Press Limited fully recognise the importance of professional integrity

Modern slavery is a crime and a violation of fundamental human rights. It takes various forms, such as slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour and human trafficking, all of which have in common the deprivation of a person's liberty by another in order to exploit them for personal or commercial gain.

We are committed to improving our practices to combat slavery and human trafficking.

Our commitment to the principles of the Modern Slavery Act 2015

Belmont Press Limited is committed to the principles of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and the abolition of modern slavery and human trafficking. As an equal-opportunities employer, Belmont Press Limited is committed to creating and ensuring a non-discriminatory and respectful working environment for all its staff.

Our supply chain

Our supply chain is limited and we procure materials from a restricted range of UK paper merchants. They in turn source PEFC and FSC papers from overseas mills. There is an extensive due diligence process to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not part of the production process.
